A SAFE BANK

We shall consider ourselves highly honored to number as customers those whose first requirements of their Bank is conservatism. From our foundation we have been rigidly and unwaveringly conservative in the conduct of our affairs. We have been willing to grow slowly in order to sacrifice no element of strength in the process of growth. Rapidity of growth is no evidence of stability. A stalk of corn attains to a greater growth in one year than an oak sappling does in five—but there are oaks that have endured for a thousand years. Whatever may militate against absolute safety to our depositors this Bank declines.

Men do not have bank accounts because they are successful, but they are successful because they have bank accounts.
